BILL FOLEY

CHAIRMAN, CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER AND GOVERNOR

Bill Foley knew that bringing an NHL franchise to Las Vegas was not going to be an easy task, but his persistence paid off on June 22, 2016. While that day will go down in history as the first day a major professional team entered the market, it would not have happened without the hard work from Foley and the people he surrounded himself with.

In the years leading up to the Board of Governor's announcement of the NHL's 31st franchise, Foley, the Vegas Golden Knights Chairman and CEO was busy engaging the fan base and aligning himself with prominent people in the community. In early 2014, he entered an agreement with the Maloof family to pursue an NHL franchise in Las Vegas. At the end of 2014, the NHL granted Foley permission to gauge fan interest in Las Vegas.

On February 15, 2015, Foley and the Maloofs launched the "Vegas Wants Hockey" season ticket drive with the goal of 10,000 season tickets sold. They received more than 5,000 ticket deposits on the first day and about a month later, they reached their goal. In June, the NHL officially announced they would accept applications for expansion. Less than a month later Foley had submitted his application. He would spend the next 11 months meeting with NHL officials and governors on why Las Vegas was a good fit.

After the expansion was announced, Foley went to work putting together his team. He named George McPhee the team's first General Manager on July 13, 2016, and the hockey operations staff started to take form. On October 3, 2016, Kerry Bubolz was named the team's first President and the business side of the team started to develop. The official team name, the Vegas Golden Knights, was announced on November 22, 2016, in front of thousands of fans in Toshiba Plaza in front of T-Mobile Arena.

Foley sat in on many meetings leading up to the Expansion Draft and on June 21, 2017, alongside McPhee, Foley announced picks at the NHL Awards Show in front of more than 10,000 fans at T-Mobile Arena.

In their inaugural season, the Golden Knights finished with a 51-24-7 overall record, won the Pacific Division and advanced to the Stanley Cup Final. Vegas became the first modern-era expansion team from any of the four North American professional sports leagues to start from scratch and finish first in its division.

Foley's NHL franchise got back to hockey's biggest stage in 2023 when defeating the Dallas Stars in the Western Conference Final and advancing to the Stanley Cup Final for the second time in the team's six years. The Golden Knights faced the Florida Panthers and Foley's ultimate dream came to life on June 13, 2023, when the Golden Knights raised the Stanley Cup on the ice of T-Mobile Arena after five games.

In addition to his role in bringing the Golden Knights to Las Vegas, Foley led the charge to bring the American Hockey's League's Henderson Silver Knights to town as well as the Indoor Football League's Vegas Knight Hawks. Since the spring of 2022, both teams play their home games at Lee's Family Forum in Henderson, Nevada. Internationally, Foley added the Premier League's AFC Bournemouth to his portfolio on December 13, 2022, FC Lorient of Ligue 1 on January 12, 2023, Moreirense FC of Primeira Liga in Portugal on June 18, 2025, and was awarded an expansion franchise in Auckland, New Zealand, in November 2023. Auckland FC competed in the A-League and won the 2024-25 A-League Men's Premiers Plate in its inaugural season.

Foley is the founder and Chairman of the Board of Directors of Fidelity National Financial Corporation (NYSE: FNF), a publicly traded Fortune 500 Company. A provider of title insurance, specialty insurance and claims management services, FNF was selected in 2004 by Forbes as one of the "26 Best Managed Companies in the U.S." and has repeatedly been named to Fortune's list of America's Most Admired Companies, Forbes' list of America's Best Big Companies and selected for Barron's list of Best Companies for Investors.

After receiving his B.S. degree in engineering from the United States Military Academy at West Point, Foley served in the U.S. Air Force, where he attained the rank of captain. He received an M.B.A. degree from Seattle University and earned his J.D. degree in 1974 from the University of Washington School of Law. From 1974 to 1984, Foley practiced law in Phoenix and focused primarily on corporate and real estate law. Following his legal tenure, Foley became affiliated with FNF. Through strategic acquisitions, Foley led FNF to become one of the largest title insurance companies in the nation, as well as to diversify into information services through the 2003 acquisition of ALLTEL Information Services, now Lender Processing Services (NYSE: LPS).

Foley devotes time to many educational and community organizations. In 1997, he was chosen as Orange County, California's Business Person of the Year, honored with the Marine Corps Scholarship Foundation's Semper Fidelis award and inducted into the Florida Council of Economic Education's First Coast Business Hall of Fame in 2006.

Foley and his wife, Carol, are active philanthropists for many causes, especially those in support of children's education. Foley has served as a trustee on the boards of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce and the Cummer Museum of Art & Gardens. He also serves on the board of the Folded Flag Foundation, and their mission is to provide educational scholarships and support grants to the spouses and children of the United States military and government personnel who died as a result of hostile action or in an accident related to U.S. combat operations. Foley's additional professional directorships include Winter Sports, Inc.; Ceridian Corporation; and Fidelity Newport Holdings, LLC.

In addition to his numerous professional and philanthropic commitments, Foley is an accomplished golfer, ranked in 2004 by Golf Digest as one of the top five executive golfers in the world. Foley enjoys his time as a vintner and is the founder and managing partner of Foley Family Wines, headquartered in Sonoma, Calif. Foley also formed and serves as Chairman of Glacier Restaurant Group, LLC, the largest restaurant business headquartered in Montana. He is the developer of Rock Creek Cattle Company, a 40,000-acre working Montana ranch, featuring a high-end golf community with diverse homesteads, a well-appointed lodge for recreation and dining and an exceptional golf course designed by Tom Doak.

GEORGE McPHEE

PRESIDENT OF HOCKEY OPERATIONS, ALTERNATE GOVERNOR

On July 13, 2016, George McPhee became the first-ever President of Hockey Operations and General Manager of the Vegas Golden Knights. On September 1, 2019, McPhee retained the President of Hockey Operations when he promoted Kelly McCrimmon to the team's General Manager.

In his current role, McPhee oversees the team's day-to-day hockey operations including development, with an emphasis on scouting, drafting, and overseeing the coaching staff. He has created a team-first culture in his short time with the franchise and has hired staff around him who share that philosophy.

McPhee earned his name on the Stanley Cup for the first time in his career after the Golden Knights topped the Florida Panthers during the 2023 Stanley Cup Final. Vegas achieved its ultimate goal after defeating Florida, 9-3, in Game 5 on June 13 at T-Mobile Arena. It was the second time that Vegas had reached the Cup Final in just six years under McPhee's leadership.

Early on, McPhee and the Golden Knights finished their unprecedented inaugural season with a 51-24-7 record (109 points) and the Pacific Division title, becoming the first modern-era expansion team from any of the four North American professional sports leagues to start from scratch and finish first in its division. For his efforts, McPhee was named the General Manager of the Year during the NHL Awards show on June 20, 2018. It was his first GM Award in his second appearance as a finalist, having finished as a runner-up in 2009-10 with the Washington Capitals.

Prior to the inaugural season, McPhee was tasked with putting together a competitive team in the short-term but also building for long-term success. Contributing to both of those goals was a successful Expansion Draft. The Expansion Draft was not the only place where McPhee and his staff were successful. Through the expansion process, the Golden Knights made agreements with other teams and benefited by having three first-round draft picks in the 2017 NHL Entry Draft and 13 overall picks in the draft. The team ended up making 12 selections, the most of any team in the 2017 draft.

McPhee joined the Golden Knights after serving as a Special Advisor to New York Islanders General Manager Garth Snow in 2015.

Prior to his time with the Islanders, McPhee served as Vice President and General Manager of the Washington Capitals for 17 seasons. Under his guidance, the Capitals grew from a lottery team to a perennial contender with multiple Southeast Division championships and the team captured the Presidents' Trophy in 2009-10.

The Capitals reached the playoffs 10 times during McPhee's tenure in Washington, including six straight seasons from 2007-08 to 2012-13. Under his leadership, the team claimed seven Southeast Division titles and he oversaw the Capitals first trip to the Stanley Cup Final in 1997-98, McPhee's first season with the franchise.

McPhee also saw success through the draft while with Washington as the team held 15 first-round draft picks from 2004-13, the most of any NHL team. His most notable selection was the No. 1 overall pick in 2004, Alex Ovechkin, the league's only active three-time MVP. Prospects flourished under McPhee's direction as the Capitals affiliate of the American Hockey League, the Hershey Bears, were Calder Cup champions in 2006, 2009 and 2010.

Prior to his time in Washington, McPhee spent five seasons as the Vice President and Director of Hockey Operations as well as alternate governor for the Vancouver Canucks, assisting then General Manager Pat Quinn with all hockey-related matters. In his time with the Canucks, the team enjoyed four trips to the playoffs, a division championship, and a trip to the 1994 Stanley Cup Final.

McPhee began his playing career in his hometown of Guelph, Ont., with the Ontario Junior Hockey League's Guelph Platers, leading them to the 1978 Centennial Cup, Canada's Tier II championship. Following his stint with the Platers, McPhee attended Bowling Green State University of the Central Collegiate Hockey Association, where he became one of college hockey's most decorated players. A four-year letterwinner from 1978-82, he was the recipient of the 1982 Hobey Baker Memorial Award, given to the top player in college hockey. His other accolades included a first-team All-CCHA selection in 1982, second-team All-CCHA honors in 1979 and 1981 and his selection as the CCHA's Rookie of the Year in 1979. Earning a degree in business, he became the first player to be named to the CCHA All-Academic Team in three consecutive seasons.

Upon the completion of his college career, McPhee signed as a free agent with the New York Rangers and started his NHL career during the 1982 Stanley Cup playoffs. Following his seven seasons with the Rangers and New Jersey Devils, McPhee earned his law degree from Rutgers University in 1992.

McPhee and his wife, Leah, have two daughters, Grayson and Adelaide, and one son, Graham, who was drafted by the Edmonton Oilers in the fifth round of the 2016 NHL Entry Draft.

KELLY McCRIMMON

GENERAL MANAGER

On September 1, 2019, Kelly McCrimmon took over the General Manager duties for the Vegas Golden Knights. He originally came to Las Vegas as one of George McPhee's first appointments and was instrumental in the development of the front office staff, roster, and culture for the organization during the first three years with the team.

Through six seasons as General Manager of the Golden Knights, McCrimmon's team has skated to an overall record of 268-142-45 during the regular season, as well as an additional 46 wins in the Stanley Cup Playoffs. Vegas was the top team in the Western Conference during the 2022-23 regular season with a record of 51-22-9, their best in team history, and advanced to the Stanley Cup Final for the second time in franchise history.

McCrimmon earned his name on the Stanley Cup for the first time in his career after the Golden Knights defeated the Florida Panthers in the 2023 Stanley Cup Final.

McCrimmon joined the organization after serving as Owner, Governor, General Manager and Head Coach of the Western Hockey League's Brandon Wheat Kings and had been with the organization since 1988-89. McCrimmon served as Head Coach from 2004-11, and 2013-16. He helped the Wheat Kings to five Memorial Cup appearances, once as a player (1979), three times as General Manager (1995, 1996, 2016) and twice as Head Coach and General Manager (2010, 2016).

Under McCrimmon's guidance, the Wheat Kings captured 10 Eastern Division pennants and six Eastern Conference Championships. He was named WHL Executive of the Year in 1994-95, 2009-10, 2014-15, and received the Canadian Hockey League Executive of the Year award in 2009-10.

Since the 1992-93 campaign, when the Wheat Kings established a CHL record that still stands as the biggest single-season improvement of 62 points, the club has won more games than any other team in the CHL and has made the playoffs 23 of the last 25 seasons.

McCrimmon is the Wheat Kings all-time winningest coach, having won over 400 games behind Brandon's bench. He purchased one-third ownership of the Wheat Kings from partner Bob Cornell in 1992 and assumed sole ownership in 2000. A member of the WHL's Board of Governors, McCrimmon also served as Chairman of the league's Competition Committee.

In September of 2020, McCrimmon officially sold the Wheat Kings after owning the club for 28 years.

The Plenty, Saskatchewan, native played two seasons in Brandon in the late seventies and was a member of the 1979 WHL Championship club before moving on to the University of Michigan from 1980-84, serving as team captain his senior year.

BRUCE CASSIDY

HEAD COACH

Bruce Cassidy was named the third head coach of the Golden Knights on June 14, 2022, and has taken Vegas to the Stanley Cup Playoffs in each of his first three seasons with the club. Cassidy owns an overall record of 438-228-80 as a head coach in the NHL, to go with an additional 62 victories in the postseason. Cassidy previously served as head coach of the Boston Bruins, where he was promoted from assistant coach during the 2016-17 NHL season.

In Cassidy's first season with the Golden Knights, he was named to the 2023 NHL All-Star Game after leading Vegas atop the Pacific Division. Vegas went on to earn their best record in franchise history at 51-22-9, the best in the Western Conference.

Cassidy and the Golden Knights won the Pacific Division in the team's final game of the regular season to set up a matchup with the Winnipeg Jets in the first round of the 2023 Stanley Cup Playoffs. After falling in the first game of the opening series, Cassidy's team won four straight games to advance. The Golden Knights then defeated the Edmonton Oilers in six games and found themselves among the NHL's final four clubs for the third time in franchise history. Under Cassidy's leadership, Vegas skated past the Dallas Stars in six games during the Western Conference Final and earned a spot in the 2023 Stanley Cup Final against the Florida Panthers.

On June 13, 2023, Cassidy lifted the Stanley Cup for the first time in his career after his team defeated the Florida Panthers in five games. Game 5 at T-Mobile Arena saw the Golden Knights win by a final score of 9-3 with a hat trick from Mark Stone, just the third ever in a Stanley Cup-clinching victory.

During Cassidy's tenure as the 28th head coach in Boston, the Bruins qualified for the postseason in each of his six seasons behind the bench. Cassidy and the Bruins reached the Stanley Cup Final in 2019, falling short in seven games against the St. Louis Blues. In the following season, Cassidy led Boston to the best record in the NHL (44-14-12), and he won the Jack Adams Award as the top coach in 2019-20.

Before joining Boston as an assistant coach prior to the 2016-17 campaign, Cassidy spent five seasons (2011-16) as head coach of the organization's AHL affiliate, the Providence Bruins. In Providence, he led the team to an overall record of 207-128-45 in 380 games and qualified for the Calder Cup Playoffs four times.

In 1996-97 Cassidy hung up his skates after 10 games with the IHL's Indianapolis Ice and stepped behind the bench as head coach of the ECHL's Jacksonville Lizard Kings. After two years with the Lizard Kings, Cassidy coached the Ice for one season, the Trenton Titans (ECHL) for one season, and the Grand Rapids Griffins (AHL) for two seasons.

In 2002-03, Cassidy made his NHL coaching debut with Washington and coached the Capitals for 110 games. Cassidy coached the Capitals to a playoff appearance in his first season after compiling a record of 39-29-8 during the 2002-03 regular season. He spent one season as an assistant coach with the Chicago Blackhawks in 2005-06 before coaching the Kingston Frontenacs of the OHL for parts of two seasons. In 2008-09, Cassidy began an eight-year stint with the Providence Bruins, five of which were as head coach. He returned to the NHL in 2016-17 as an assistant with Boston and became head coach on Feb. 7, 2017.

A defenseman in his playing career, Cassidy appeared in 36 NHL games, all with the Chicago Blackhawks, and collected 17 points (4 G, 13 A). Cassidy also spent time playing in the AHL, OHL and IHL, as well as internationally in Germany and Italy. He was drafted by Chicago in the first round (18th overall) of the 1983 NHL Entry Draft.

Born May 20, 1965, in Ottawa, Canada, he and his wife, Julie, have a daughter, Shannon, and a son, Cole, who both currently play youth hockey in Las Vegas.

Vegas bursts into year nine in NHL with familiar ferocity and significant additions in bid for Stanley Cup

GOLDEN KNIGHTS REMAIN ALL-IN

The Vegas Golden Knights have never been shy. The summer of 2025 was no different.

On July 1, they went shopping and came home with a superstar. Mitch Marner, one of the premier playmakers in the NHL, changing Toronto blue for Vegas gold. Earlier in the year, they brought back Reilly Smith, a pillar of the original Golden Misfits, and added veteran Brandon Saad.

The Golden Knights enter their ninth season with a familiar mandate: contend for the Stanley Cup. The organization took a step forward by adding elite talent in Mitch Marner and reinforcing its depth with the acquisition of center Colton Sissons and defenseman Jeremy Lauzon.

The top nine in Vegas is a coach's dream: Ivan Barbashev, Jack Eichel, and Mitch Marner could form an elite top line. Eichel brings the pace and touch, Barbashev the grit and finish, and Marner the creativity that makes it all hum. Expect fireworks.

GOLDEN KNIGHTS REMAIN ALL-IN

Behind them, it's a mix of veterans and proven scorers. Captain Mark Stone, original Misfits William Karlsson and Reilly Smith as well as Tomas Hertl, Brandon Saad and Pavel Dorofeyev give coach Bruce Cassidy all kinds of options.

The fourth line — Brett Howden–Colton Sissons–Keegan Kolesar — is clearly defined. Heavy, fast, and hard to play against. And they're not here to kill minutes. They'll chip in goals and dictate tone.

The most seismic shift on the blueline isn't a signing — it's an absence. Alex Pietrangelo will not play this season, a major loss for the Golden Knights. Pietrangelo has contributed a bit of everything since his arrival and was critical to the team's Stanley Cup championship in 2022-23.

Shea Theodore is the team's most dynamic offensive defenseman. Paired with Brayden McNabb, the duo will be expected to get heavy minutes and top matchups. Both blue liners have been in Vegas since the franchise's inception in 2017-18.

GOLDEN KNIGHTS REMAIN ALL-IN

The second pair of Noah Hanifin–Zach Whitecloud offers steadiness. Hanifin is still finding his full ceiling, while Whitecloud remains the steadying hand.

The third pairing will consist of a combination of Jeremy Lauzon, Kaedan Korczak and Ben Hutton. Between the three of them there is bite, mobility and a splash of offense.

The crease belongs to Adin Hill. Fresh off a season of steady climbs, Hill is the clear starter. His size, calm, and playoff pedigree make him a reliable backbone. Behind him is Akira Schmid, still working to carve out his spot in the league.

Training camp showed to have its auditions. Mathieu Cataford, Matyas Sapovaliv, and Jakub Brabenec are all eyeing forward roles, while defenseman Lukas Cormier continues to push for NHL ice. Depth is currency in the NHL. If Vegas stays healthy, these kids may have to wait in Henderson with the Silver Knights. If not, opportunity knocks.

The 2025–26 season promises to be another wild ride in the desert. Vegas remains Vegas — unapologetic, star-driven, and built to chase the Cup.

GOLDEN KNIGHTS GO FOR GOLD

Vegas Golden Knights hope to be well-represented at the 2026 Winter Games in Italy

By Gordon Weigers

GOLDEN KNIGHTS GO FOR GOLD

It's been said that the 2025 4 Nations Face-Off was just an appetizer for hockey at the 2026 Winter Games in Italy. If the tournament held in Montreal and Boston last February was just the first course, it was a 10-tier seafood tower at the best restaurant in town.

Sounds filling. Hopefully hockey fans saved room for what could be the best international hockey tournament in decades at the Winter Olympics in Milano-Cortina this February.

The Vegas Golden Knights were well-represented at the 4 Nations Face-Off and hope that happens again at the Olympics. Mark Stone, Shea Theodore, Adin Hill and Bruce Cassidy lifted the 4 Nations trophy at TD Garden in Boston after shaking hands with Jack Eichel, Noah Hanifin and the Americans following Canada's 3-2 overtime win in the championship game. Both Alex Pietrangelo (Canada) and William Karlsson (Sweden) were named to their respective nations' rosters but did not play in the tournament.

New Golden Knights winger Mitch Marner was part of Canada's winning team and developed a rapport with Hill, Theodore, Stone and Cassidy as they teamed up to win what Michael Farber so eloquently labeled "the tournament with no past and no future."

GOLDEN KNIGHTS GO FOR GOLD

The only thing missing from the 4 Nations Face-Off was, well, all the other nations. The last time the NHL paused its season to have its players compete at the Olympics was in 2014 when Canada overcame Sweden in the final to claim its ninth gold medal. The 2018 games in Seoul were the first since 1994 that NHL players did not participate in and that trend continued at the Beijing Games in 2022. At the Olympics, a full 12-nation field takes the ice, and the NHL's return to Olympic participation will finally restore that global stage when the world's best players skate in Italy this February.

The Golden Knights already have three representatives locked in to participate and have a slew of hopefuls who aim to skate for their respective countries in Italy.

Eichel was one of six players named to Team USA over the summer as the North Chelmsford, Mass. native will play in the Olympics for the first time in his career. Jonas Rondbjerg was named to Denmark's roster in June and will get his first taste of Olympic hockey after helping the Danes clinch a spot in the event at the qualification tournament in September of 2024. Cassidy will make his Olympic debut behind Canada's bench as he was named to the coaching staff in July.

Marner, Hill, Stone and Theodore were invited to Canada's Olympic orientation camp over the summer and remain in contention to be part of the team that travels to Italy. Hanifin joined Eichel at Team USA's orientation camp and will look to secure his spot on the American blueline again at the Olympics.

GOLDEN KNIGHTS GO FOR GOLD

Though Karlsson didn't compete at the 4 Nations Face-Off due to injury, he did join Team Sweden at the 2025 IIHF World Championship and helped the Swedes to a bronze medal at the tournament. His Olympic hopes are high and, if he's selected, he'll look to help Sweden capture its first Olympic gold medal since 2006.

Tomas Hertl broke into the NHL in 2013 and, despite a strong start to his rookie year, was not selected to represent Czechia at the 2014 Winter Games in Sochi. He was four years old when the Czechs won the gold medal in 1998 in Nagano. The Prague native posted the fourth 60-point season of his NHL career last season as he put up 61 points (32G, 29A) in his first full campaign with the Golden Knights. With another strong start to the 2025-26 season, Hertl has a strong chance to help the Czechs pursue their second gold medal.

The Golden Knights have an opportunity to have both of their goalies play in the Olympics as Hill is a hopeful for Canada and Akira Schmid is a top-contender for the starting job for Switzerland. Schmid, 25, last skated for Switzerland at the 2024 IIHF World Championship where he helped the Swiss to a silver medal.

Rosters for each country's team are expected to be announced in early 2026 which will allow each nation to use the first half of the 2025-26 NHL season as a measuring stick in the selection process for the Winter Games. Each Olympic hopeful on the Vegas Golden Knights roster will have an extra bit of motivation early in the season knowing that getting hot at the right time could result in a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity in Italy.

HEADWAY IN HENDERSON

Silver Knights new young core brings fresh excitement for clubs AHL affiliate

By Nick Aberle

HEADWAY IN HENDERSON

The Henderson Silver Knights skated onto the ice for the 2024–25 season with a fresh wave of energy stemming from a new generation of players looking to make their mark. From the first puck drop to the final buzzer, last season became a showcase of potential impact NHLers, each adding a unique element to a team looking to take the next step.

Five names led the way, players that Silver Knights fans quickly grew familiar with: forwards Braeden Bowman, Trevor Connelly, Matyas Sapovaliv, and Kai Uchacz, along with goaltender Carl Lindbom. Together, they brought an infusion of leadership, energy, and skill that not only carried the Silver Knights through the grind of the season, but also gave a glimpse into a promising future for hockey in Henderson.

Although undrafted, Bowman arrived in Henderson ready to make a name for himself. Named captain during his time with the OHL's Guelph Storm, the Kitchener, Ontario native walked into the Silver Knights' locker room with plenty to prove. His game carried both skill and consistency, and he produced 36 points in 68 games, finishing second on the team in scoring. Bowman wasn't just impressive for his numbers, but for the way he seemed to rise to the occasion when the team needed him, stringing together multi-point nights and making an impact shift after shift. For a rookie, he looked anything but.

Sapovaliv, meanwhile, became the definition of reliability. In his first full season with the Silver Knights, the Czech forward suited up for 71 of 72 games and showed steady improvement along the way. His first career goal came in just his second outing, and he posted an impressive five-game point streak last December. Sapovaliv was also a key face-off man for Head Coach Ryan Craig, displaying both consistency and reliability.

Then there was Uchacz, a player who epitomized determination. Like Bowman, Uchacz joined the organization as an undrafted free agent. Uchacz was a product of the WHL's Red Deer Rebels, where he served as captain. In Henderson, he showed a knack for bringing physicality as well as a finishing touch around the net, potting 15 goals in his rookie season. His effort, grit, and scoring knack gave the Silver Knights a new and dangerous weapon.

Connelly served as a spark at the end of the season, offering a tantalizing sample of what is to come in the years ahead. Drafted in the first round by the Golden Knights in 2024, he began the year at Providence College before joining Henderson in the spring. In just six games, he brought flashes of the creativity and flair that made him such a coveted prospect. His four points in that short span, including his first professional goal, were a reminder that his story is just beginning in Henderson.

Behind all of them stood Lindbom, calm and confident in his crease. The Swedish goaltender had already tested himself against men in the SHL, but his first season on North American ice would carry new challenges. He met them head on. With 18 wins and three shutouts, Lindbom gave Henderson a steady last line of defense. Just as important, he gave the group in front of him the freedom to play confidently, knowing he was there to protect the house. Finishing second among all AHL rookie goaltenders in wins, goals-against average, and save percentage, Lindbom drew league-wide recognition as a young goaltender whose star is on the rise.

When the curtain closed on the 24–25 campaign, the Henderson Silver Knights found themselves not just reflecting on a season of growth but standing at the threshold of something bigger. With Bowman's consistency, Connelly's spark, Sapovaliv's dependability, Uchacz's grit, and Lindbom's poise in net, the foundation has been laid for the team to take the next step. With a new wave of rookies expected to be part of the upcoming season at Lee's Family Forum, these established voices will have the opportunity to add 'leadership' to their list of qualities as well.

EXPAND THE REALM IN ARIZONA

THE GOLDEN KNIGHTS CONTINUE TO STRIVE TO FILL HOCKEY VOID ACROSS THE DESERT IN ARIZONA

By Lexi Flom

EXPAND THE REALM

The Vegas Golden Knights use the phrase "Expand the Realm" as a term that represents spreading awareness of what Vegas hockey is all about. With the loss of the Arizona Coyotes in the Phoenix area, the Golden Knights have continued to expand the realm in the desert. Since the announcement of Scripps Sports broadcasts in September 2024, the Golden Knights organization has visited Arizona four times to continue the growth of youth hockey in the desert.

Sheri Hudspeth, Director of Youth Hockey Programs, has taken charge of bringing the Golden Knights to Arizona. The four trips last season included on-ice and ball hockey clinics, watch parties, book signings, Q&As with team broadcasters, and meet and greets with VGK alumni. The organization plans to host more on-ice hockey clinics and trips in Arizona this upcoming season, as well as hosting the NHL Learn to Play throughout the fall. The hard work and drive of Hudspeth are a testament to what the Golden Knights organization is all about.

"Hockey is thriving in the desert. We saw that through the enthusiasm from all the kids and coaches who came out to skate with us," said Hudspeth. "It's important to the Vegas Golden Knights to support the thriving youth hockey community in Arizona and ensure the momentum and the love of the game are maintained."

All trips to Arizona place a heavy emphasis on growing youth hockey. Each trip is carefully curated around on-ice hockey clinics at Ice Dens in Scottsdale, Chandler, and Glendale, Arizona. Most recently, the Golden Knights stopped in Tempe, Arizona, to host clinics at Mullett Arena for the first time with the help of Arizona State University hockey players.

Hudspeth's team of coaches teach special skills and drills to each participant so they can further their own game in hockey. Special guests, such as VGK alumni Deryk Engelland and two-time Olympian Megan Bozek, joined some of the kids on the ice to spread their knowledge of the game to the next generation of hockey players.

"Sharing my knowledge and experiences is always fun because I never had [these clinics] growing up," said Bozek. "Hockey belongs in the desert, and Vegas knows quite well what they've brought into their city. Now they are bringing it into Arizona. You can just tell that they're genuinely having fun and they're excited to put the Vegas Golden Knights jersey on."

The organization also connects with the Arizona community off the ice. Each trip featured at least one ball hockey clinic at local community centers or schools in the Phoenix area. LosVGK has hosted several ball hockey clinics at Chicanos Por La Causa, Sunny Slope Community Center, and Catalina Ventura Elementary School. LosVGK is the team's outreach platform designed to represent and celebrate its Hispanic and Latino fanbase throughout the realm.

"It's really important to have a platform like LosVGK where we can show up to a Hispanic community center and put on a ball hockey clinic to offer our Learn to Play Hockey programming and literature in Spanish or English," Ben Thomas, Director of Latino Marketing and Outreach said. "Being able to have that available year-round is so important to growing the game in these non-traditional markets."

The bus ride back to Las Vegas left the cast and crew feeling fulfilled and saturated with appreciation that Arizona has welcomed the team with open arms. When the team first visited in October 2024, they were unsure of what the reactions would be from locals in the area. After having completed four trips, it's clear that Arizona wants hockey to stay.

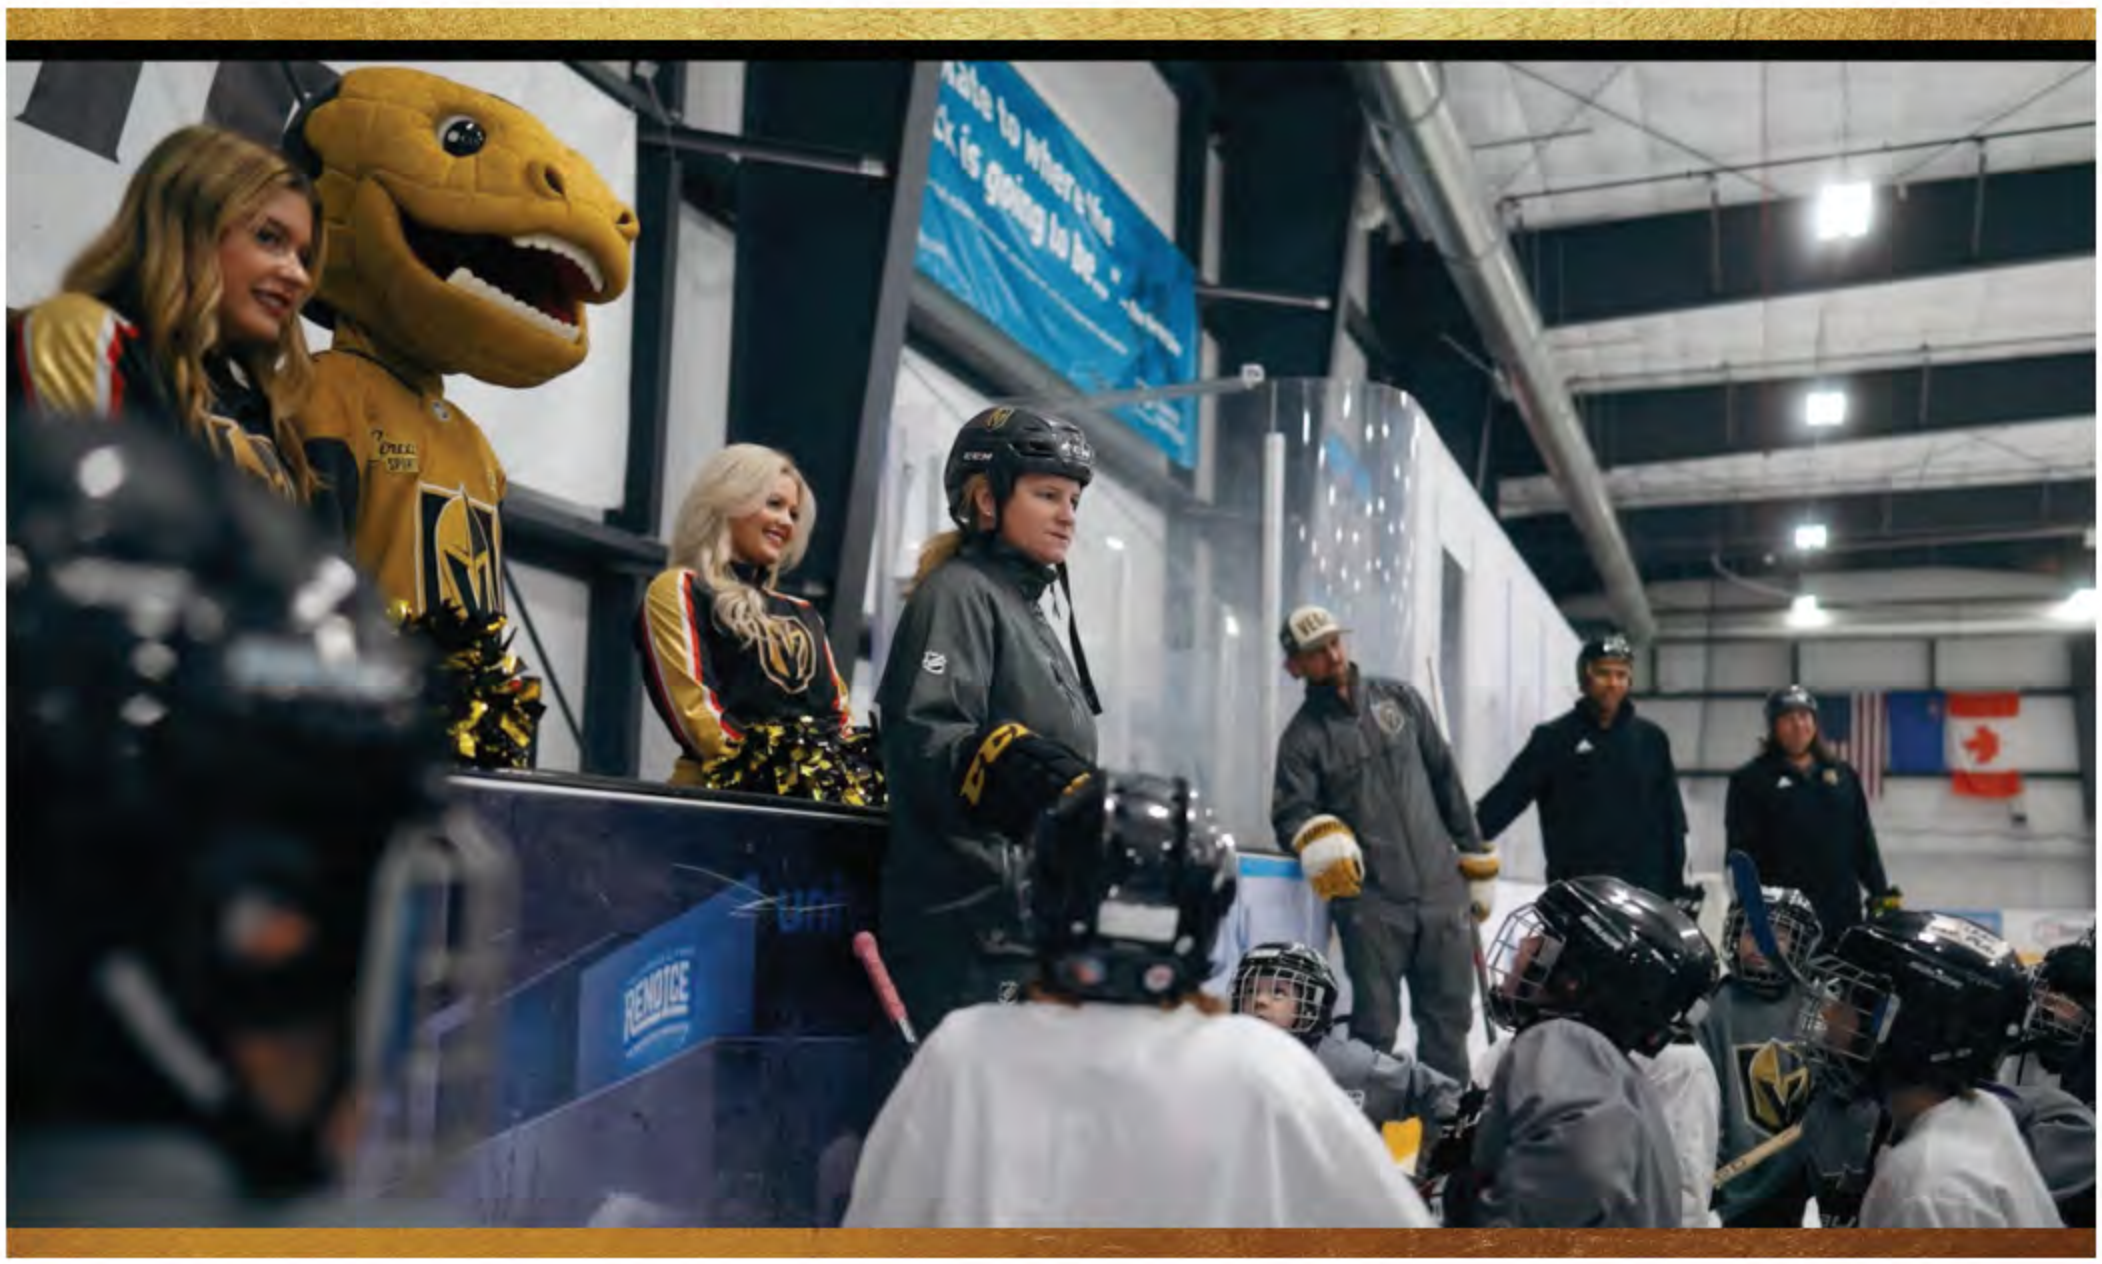
EXPAND THE REALM



Arizona hockey fans were devastated when they lost the Arizona Coyotes at the conclusion of the 2023-2024 season, however, they remain passionate about the sport. The Vegas Golden Knights want to be that entertaining option for Arizona fans to follow. Hockey thrives in the desert, and it was prominent during each clinic on every road trip.

The Golden Knights are committed to growing the game everywhere, especially in Arizona. The most recent trip in July wasn't the first nor will it be the last trip the Golden Knights take to the Phoenix area. LosVGK and the Golden Knights look forward to returning to Arizona for bigger and better things to come.

> "It's important to the Vegas Golden Knights to support the thriving youth hockey community in Arizona and ensure the momentum and the love of the game are maintained."

COMMUNITY ASSISTS

Vegas Golden Knights High School Hockey League Caps Off Inaugural Season

By Amber Dammeir

COMMUNITY ASSISTS

Since their inception, the Vegas Golden Knights have desired the growth of hockey in the community. Over the course of the past eight years, the team has spent their time diligently to expand the game's reach across the entire state of Nevada. With every initiative, people like Darren Eliot, Senior Vice President of Hockey Programming and Facilities Operations, are working endlessly to figure out ways for kids to find interest in being a part of the next generation of hockey players.

Throughout this year, the franchise has created many major opportunities for young kids who are hungry to lace up the skates. The new High School Hockey League was launched by the Vegas Golden Knights in April which featured 16 co-ed teams with over 320 high school-aged players, each representing the communities in which they live. Organized by regional "hot maps," the teams were created to ensure accessibility and community representation across the Las Vegas Valley. Games were played at City National Arena, America First Center, and Hylo Park Arena, showcasing the city's growing footprint in youth hockey.

"For some of these kids, this was their first opportunity to play competitive hockey close to home," said Wally Lacroix, Director of Facility Programs and Operations for the Henderson Silver Knights. "My goal has always been to grow hockey in the valley. The whole goal here is to get into every high school — to have a Las Vegas high school league where every high school has a team, just like any other sport."

The league has already been in the works for more than three years. The Golden Knights' vision was rooted in creating opportunities for kids who might not have the resources for traditional club or travel hockey. It is another step for growing the sport of hockey and something to give a chance for all kids to grow their game and play competitively.

> HENDERSON SILVER KNIGHTS DIRECTOR OF FACILITY PROGRAMS AND OPERATIONS

The plan had hopes to stir up a willingness to join the league. Once it was showcased across all platforms, the expectations were not just met but skyrocketed as over 430 boys and girls signed up within the first month.

For parents alike, being able to see their kids play in a sport with so much joy makes them feel seen. Hundreds of families around the city have found another avenue to love hockey, and their experiences are proof that this concept will work across the Valley.

During the course of the 15-game season, many coaches around the league found much enjoyment watching kids improve amongst the parents who got to watch their children get an opportunity to play hockey competitively.

On July 26, the new league crowned two new champions to celebrate the first season. As the victors hoisted the trophy, every fan and player were soaking in the moments they will never forget, witnessing the inaugural season of a league that will continue to grow. Every individual in that arena appeared to share the same amount of gratitude and excitement for the growth this league will have for years to come.

COMMUNITY ASSISTS

The newly assembled initiative is a foundational step toward building a fully-organized high school league in which schools are fielding their own teams. It's a chance for aspiring young players to compete during some of the most memorable and formative years of their lives, while also driving the interest of the game as kids make their way into high school.

The Vegas Golden Knights have stayed determined in continuing to develop the sport in the city. The enthusiasm across the league extended to the atmosphere in the stands, which saw attendance exceeding 100 fans at most games. For an inaugural league operating over just a few months, that kind of support was a powerful statement for what is possible.

A new generation of kids playing hockey will be born with the help of players starting the sport at a younger age. As more kids climb the ranks of hockey programs around Las Vegas, there's an inevitable growth for the Vegas Golden Knights High School Hockey League that will come with time.

The league also gives the chance for kids to build their NHL fandom and emulate their favorite Golden Knights players on the ice. Most teams have players wearing numbers like 9, 61, 71 and other jersey numbers worn by popular Golden Knights players.

For players and coaches, this means more than just a game. It gives a community a chance to connect. The league provides opportunity and chances for kids to practice and strengthen their skills while giving coaches a chance to share their love of the sport.

As the VGK High School Hockey League closed its first chapter, it was clear this is only the beginning. What started as an idea to bring together the community has now turned into a thriving league that has brought families closer and given kids a chance to shine.
